The beautiful notes of a song bird caused passers-by on Pennsylvania avenue early this morning to pause. Hope shone from each face. Was this the first robin? What joy it would be to remark casually, "I saw a robin today." The goose-bone prophets hearing the bird remember their statements that spring had come and importantly stated that fact.

"Well," began one, "I told you two weeks ago cold winter was over, and now that robin proves it just like I said it was and—"

Before the prophets started fighting among themselves, someone stated that he hadn't yet seen the robin. See him? Why see him? Everyone could hear him.

The beautiful bird notes continued from above, and every eye turned up to see the robin.

There perched on one of the bare boughs was a canary.

Just then a little girl came with a cage and attempted to inveigle the canary into it.

It is said that a prophet has no honor in his own land.

LAW JOURNAL OUT TODAY

Georgetown Publication Contains Articles By Members of Faculty.

The February number of the Georgetown University Law School Journal, issued today, contains a number of timely articles.

Three of the leading articles by members of the faculty are: "The Status of Consuls," by Prof. Henry S. Routell, former minister to Switzerland; an article on the relation of the Patent Office to the world, by Commissioner of Patents Ewing, who is professor of patent law at Georgetown, and an article by Prof. Raleigh C. Minor on the mode of instituting a suit against a State in the Supreme Court of the United States.

URGES BREAD ENVELOPES

Board of Trade Health Committee Makes Recommendation.

That all bread offered for sale in the District of Columbia be wrapped in the bakery in prepared paper and sealed, is one of the recommendations in the annual report of the committee on public health of the Washington Board of Trade, which will be submitted at the meeting of the board Wednesday evening at the Willard Hotel. Dr. D. Percy Hickling is chairman of the committee.

Other committees which will submit reports at the meeting are those on charities and corrections, Louis A. Dent, chairman; public transportation, Charles F. Wood, chairman; universities, Charles Ray Dean, chairman; water supply, Appleton P. Clark, chairman.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire and Senator Chamberlain of Oregon are scheduled to speak.

President Edwin C. Brandenburg will preside.

"MIRACLES NOT ESSENTIAL."

"Religion does not depend on a personal belief in the miracles of the Bible," said the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, in his sermon last evening at All Saints' Unitarian Church. One might, if one wished, go over the whole Bible, blue pencil every miracle in it and every story that looks like a miracle, and nothing essential to religion would be lost," Dr. Pierce explained that he believed the resurrection of Christ was a spiritual resurrection, not a physical one.

WILL AUCTION LETTERS.

The collection of autograph letters and documents belonging to the late Frederick B. McGuire, for many years director of the Corcoran Art Gallery, will be sent to New York, where they will be placed up for auction at the American Art Gallery, February 26th. Mr. McGuire obtained these documents from his father, James C. McGuire, who received them from Mrs. James Madison, by purchase and through her will, of which he was executor.

The collection comprises an unusually large number of letters addressed to and written by the most prominent men of the early days of the republic.

A Marked Feature of Our Millinery Display

Were Large Dress Hats In Many Styles

Which bore out predictions of many fashion authorities that "as the season progresses hats will grow larger."

Particular favor is shown to large black hats of lustrous lisere straw, which are faced with royal blue, and trimmed with wide velvet ribbons, and made complete with a gorgeous great French rose.

Fine hair hats are in almost every shade of pink, from a delicate rose tint to the very latest new shade, PECHE-IRIS, which links hands with the faintest sea-shell pink on the one side, and on the other claims kinship with the orchid colorings.

There are large hats of net, and lace, and beautiful leghorns; one in particular has the top of the brim and crown piece of smoked velvet; with velvet ties to match, and rose and fruit trimming contrasting with the velvet.
